JACK CROSS.

A SHORT SKETCH OF HIS VALUABLE LIFE.

A Man Who Has Known Him From Childhood Tells What He Knows.

A CHARITABLE MAN.

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., August 14, 1933.—When I was 21 years old there lived in the town of Cloverport a boy about nine years of age, struggling with the world to earn a living. That boy was Jack Cross. Capt. Jim Morehead, a young lawyer who lived there at that time, seeing something attractive in young Cross took him in his office, cared for him and taught him in the English branches, and said that some day he would make him a man.

In 1860, when our civil war was burst upon us and Capt. Morehead raised a company to go South, Jack was under eighteen years of age, but he enlisted and for more than four long years he followed and fought with him and taught him in the English branches, and said that some day he would make him a man.

There was nothing to do but to face the world like a man. And at it he went. With a clear head and a steady heart he pushed his way inch by inch and step by step to fame and fortune, and now whatever is his he obtained in and around his native town and county—even his honored wife was raised in Cloverport. Jack has been as true to Democracy as the needle to the pole, always aiding his party when at the hands of his time and his money, never asking for it at its hands. It is true that, recognizing his merits and qualifications, the President made him better suited for Kentucky and the Governor made him Adjutant-General. He has filled both positions honorably. He now asks for the first time in his life to be elected to the office of his party. Will the Democrats see him defeated by a man from another county? I can't think it. At any rate Bewleyville precinct will cast her right for Jack Cross. Young men of Cloverport, if you were a candidate for office would you go to Meade and ask Richardson for a vote, or would you say, "Mr. Cross, I want your vote and influence?" Really, morally and politically he is the equal of his opponents. His purse has been opened quick when asked to relieve the poor, or to assist in any way the people of his county.

I write this letter because I have been voting the Democratic ticket forty-one years and I never knew, in that time, less reason for not supporting your own countyman. You jeopardize your Legislative candidates also. My Democratic friends, you had better reflect seriously before you vote against Jack Cross.

The Spring Chicken Again.

Heavy Tragedian (at railway hotel)—Prithie, landlord, dwells there within the precincts of this hamlet a machinist? Landlord—A machinist, yes, but a Plaid Tragedian—Then take to him this bit of many springs. Bid him wrench, for these iron limbs, and then, for our enjoyment, to elude slices from his unyielding lozenge, for we would dine anon—and pray, you do it quickly. You peas you need not carry, for we can swallow with delectable management, or can swallow whole. Away!—Blessings!

Ignorance of the merits of DeWitt's Little Early Risers is a misfortune. These little pills regulate the liver, cure headache, dyspepsia, bad breath, constipation and biliousness. A. R. Fisher, Cloverport, and Witt & Meador, Hardinsburg.

Too Tempting.

"I think, Willie," said his father, who had been looking through the new house, "I shall give you one of the rooms at the other end of the building."

"What's the matter with this one?" inquired Willie, anxiously.

"The matter, my son," replied the experienced parent, his left eyelid coming slowly down over the eye, "is that the window opens out on the kitchen roof, the coal shed is close to the door, and this is the circus season."—Chicago Tribune.

Faith may move mountains, but one has not moved in this matter for a long season—but our great and noble will still stand just the same. Sals's.

IT IS FALSE

Like All The Other Reports. The Appointment Is Made.

The statement in the Harrowville Plain dealer that "Collector Powers has appointed him in every county save Hancock and Breckinridge" is not only false, but the fact that it was not true must have been known by the editor when he wrote it. There are twenty counties in the district in which there have been no appointments of store keepers and it is as untrue as it is unjust to Collect Powers to make wholesale charges against him in the ruthless manner in which the Plaindealer is guilty of.

We venture the prediction that not one single applicant for Federal office under Collector Powers has ever been asked the question by that official whether he was for or against Capt. Gross. If the Plaindealer is against Gross it has a perfect right to say so, but we question the right of any paper to make wholesale charges without foundation against persons who are widely disconnected from the race. Collector Powers has had his hands entirely full attending to his own business, and we feel certain that the Plaindealer cannot point to a single individual or instance wherein Collector Powers has requested any applicant for position under him to vote for Capt. Gross. The Plaindealer can afford to be for Lindsey, it can afford to be against Lindsey, but it cannot afford to misrepresent the facts.—Owensboro Inquirer.

If you can afford to be annoyed by sick headache and constipation, don't use DeWitt's Little Early Risers for these little pills will cure them. A. R. Fisher, Cloverport, and Witt & Meador, Hardinsburg.

If you save up something for a rainy day, you can keep it dry under one of the Sals's long-enduring umbrellas.

Friendship.

"I don't think you treat Great Heart right."

"How is that?"

"You borrow money from him and never repay it. You take up his time when he is busy, and use his office as if it were your own."

"Quite a crowd from here will attend the funeral of Miss Mary Ann."

"Surely don't think I would turn anybody that way wasn't a friend?"

"Jack" Gross is by far the most capable man that has offered for the State Senate in his district. There is very little in the talk that he has a hard race. The people of that section know Captain Gross as a true Democrat and an honest, deserving gentleman. He has made countless personal and financial sacrifices for his party. He is entitled to the splendid victory that awaits him.—Louisville Critic.

A NIGHT OF TERROR.

I, as an unusual thing, was lying awake and it was about half-past three Sunday morning when I heard some one jump over the fence that runs between our house and the coffin shop. Supposing it was some one after a coffin and would soon call papa I did not get up, but being frightened until I heard some one say: "Didn't they get her after us, though, when we were stealing those chickens?" The other man said, "Yes, they were sure they came very near catching me once. And after we heard this time to this coffin shop it did not do us a bit of good. I thought there would be some money in there sure." The first voice replied, "Yes, I did too, and I bet they have got hold of money in here for us, if we once get her back of it there will be no getting her back."

They then came to the window, raised it about a foot higher, pushed the blind and curtain back, and the white man came in, and I thought both of them did. But instead of coming in, one of them (the colored man) stayed back by the side of the window outside. Why did not halo! I can not tell, unless it was because I was frightened too badly to think about it.

The white man came on through my room and went into Papa's room, closing the door after him.

I thought I would jump out the window and wake some of the neighbors. I got up, went to the window, and was just fixing to jump out when the man outside grabbed me by my left shoulder and the right hand and placed the other hand over my mouth, then said, "No, I guess you won't, for I have got you." Then the man came in from Papa's room, closing the door after him, and bringing the lamp from Papa's room, he sat it on the bureau and turned it down real low. Then he came over to where we were.

It was then I discovered that the man was white and the other man was black. I could tell by their hands. Both had on masks made of black oil cloth. The negro had on blue pants, black shirt and a black hat, a little spotted. The white man had on black clothes. Both of them had on black hats.

The colored man said, "What are we going to do with this thing?" The white man said, "I will tie this handkerchief over your mouth; and you, madam, if you had been quiet and attended to your own business we would not have bothered you, but this is what you get." They both said if I hallooed they would cut my throat. The negro still held my shoulder and mouth. The white man held my other handkerchief that he had drawn from his pocket around my mouth twice and he then tied the handkerchief.

I thought if I could tear the mask from their faces I would be able perhaps to recognize them. So I grabbed at the white man's mask. He threw his head back and I grabbed his neck with my other hand, and he fell on the floor. The negro said, "She has found you out, so straight as any one. He had been bent over and looked exactly like an old man. The negro shook me terribly bad and I hit him in the face. He rubbed his nose and said, "You, she has broke my nose." He then hit me on my right shoulder and on my breast and choked me, making blue places. He asked the white man what he was going to do with me. He drew a short rope from his pocket and said, "The her hands." They did my hands. They both looked around and one said, "I will grab her by the neck, did you?" We will tie her on it. They took me and threw me down on my back and cut a long rope in two and the negro said, "That is not the rope you got in the coffin shop for that I know on both ends of it." "Yes, but I don't know if when we were sitting in the yard and left them." (We found the knots next morning.) I kicked so hard the rope on my feet. The white man wrapped the rope around my neck three times and tied me to the bed post. He then tied my feet and said, "You lie there all night till they find you, if you don't die first."

The white man then ransacked my bureau and every box in my room, but found no money. The negro said, "He is the third Saturday night we have made a raid and this is the smallest we have gotten yet." The white man said, "You say here, there is something in the other room I believe has money in there. He went back in Papa's room, where he and my brother James, were sleeping and brought Papa's pants in and searched them. He really did not get anything and threw them down and said, "I had so much well pick dirt out of the road as the good it did to get these. I will go back and get another pair." He went out and brought my brother's pants in and found a pocketbook with four dollars and seventy-five cents in it. The negro told him not to take the book as they would find him out. He said, "That's right," and the book back where he got it and said, "I will not take this, I won't pay for my trouble." The negro said, "Yes, take it, if they get very hot after us it will take us across the river." He said, "That's right," and turned around and looked at me and said, "Let's kill her. If we leave her here she will tell on us." The negro said, "No, let's don't; she could not help because they haven't any money." The white man said, "Yes, let's cut her throat," and started toward me. The negro caught him and pulled him to the window and they started away in a run.

I was afraid the white man would persuade the negro to come back and kill me. I struggled to get loose, but he was so tightly I soon became exhausted and could not speak when they first found me that morning. This is everything that happened from beginning to end, as I was perfectly conscious all the time, but of course was frightened badly at times.

The success of Mrs. Annie M. Beam, of McKeesport, Pennsylvania, in the treatment of diarrhoea in her children undoubtedly has been of interest to many mothers. She says: "I spent several weeks in Johnstown, Pa., after the great flood, on account of my husband being employed there. We had several children with us, two of whom took the terrible arborescent fever. I got some of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy from Rev. Mr. Chapman. It cured both of them. I know of several other cases where it was equally successful. I think it cannot be excelled and cheerfully recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by A. R. Fisher.

WOMEN SHOULD KEEP BOOKS.

It Encourages Habits of Economy and Good Judgment.

Whether a woman is poor or rich it behooves her to acquire methodical business habits, keeping her little accounts accurately and knowing to a cent just what she does with her money, whether she has ten cents or a hundred to spend on her own little personal wants. An allowance is the first step toward this end, for at the same time it is impressed upon her that every cent spent should be paid down with unflinching regularity. In black and white one notes how much more easily the money can be spent, how quickly the bill is paid, and how much more satisfaction have lived it from our pocket.

Without setting down each item it is ten chances to four that you will conclude that you must have lost some money when you can not get the bill. A little bill when you only bought such a few things. The next little figures are a genuine restraint, besides instilling a habit of order that will pay the price of fortune ever smiles and a great estate comes to your hands, and still greater if economy is a necessity, and the bill will be forced into doing duty for two.

Unless the accounts are kept accurately, and cash made to balance every evening, you had better not attempt any book-keeping, for it will be a waste of time worse than that, and only confuse everything rather than help matters. If anything is worth doing at all, it is worth doing thoroughly. It is a habit of future good as the habit of looking carefully out for the pennies when school days are the only trials, and the allowances of life with a trick of official against a war politician for libel, and the other ever did like either one of them.

"Did you ever find in your paper that the plaintiff was a thief?"

"No, sir."

"Have you said the defendant was a person entirely untruthful?"

"Ah, you believe then that he is truthful at times?"

"I know of one time when he told the absolute truth."

"Will you state when it was?"

"Certainly, it was when he called the plaintiff a liar and a scoundrel."—Detroit Free Press.

On one occasion in a Western town the editor of the country paper was a character witness in a suit by a tricky official against a war politician for libel, and the other ever did like either one of them.

Cause For Suspicion.

Jester—I don't like to distrust a man before I really know anything of him; but to be sure, I would be inclined to put very little faith in that chap you just introduced us to.

Quaker—And why, pray?

Jester—Because he said a stutterer. Quaker—Pshaw! How can a stutterer of that kind be introduced as being a man of honor?

Quaker—It is not a stutterer. It seems to be the most natural thing in the world for him to break his word.—Boston Courier.

Try a package breakfast food a light and healthy food.—Sulzer's.

Schools—The Way to Have a Good One.

If the people want a good school this fall, we will give them a few simple recipes which never fail.

The first thing necessary to a good school is a first class row in the district in regard to the teacher. The more factors the better, as they will create an interest. Of course it is understood that the Teachers are more figurative, and that it is the business of all the people to employ the teacher.

After the teacher has been employed, and before he begins his school, it is well enough to discuss him all over the district, especially in the presence of the pupils; it will increase their respect for him when he begins work. This part of the program should never be omitted.

When he comes into the district it is the business duty of Mrs. Smith to call on him and tell him how bad Mrs. Brown's children are, for otherwise he might not know it. It's a good idea, too, for Mrs. Smith to tell him how good and obedient her children are, for otherwise he might not find that out.

After the school begins it is quite proper for the people to instruct their children to watch things in school and report at home, as the teacher is not apt to do his duty unless he is carefully watched. It is not well to have children to attend school regularly, it might injure their health. If Sally has a headache her parents should not for the world permit her to go to school. Besides, a teacher can not educate a girl when she is under his instruction one day in a week, it is a fallacy anyhow.

There is one thing that should be carefully watched and stopped if attempted. We refer to the introduction of new methods. They are every one humping, and should not be tolerated at all. If a teacher attempts them argue with him, but if he persists, turn him off.

If a teacher reprimands a pupil the pupil should stop school promptly. It is well for the pupil's mother to go to the school house and give the teacher a piece of her mind. It will make him more careful next time.

Parents should not be allowed to forget that times are changed; that parents no longer control their children, nor permit any one else to do so.

Parents should not allow their new fangled text books. They are a farce, from beginning to end. The old black backed speller is like "old time religion"; it is good enough for any one.

The first teacher that brings a blackboard into the school house should have it bursted over his head. Slates are the proper thing.

There are many other things we could say on this subject, but we refrain. We have said enough. If the people will take our advice we guarantee that they will have a school.—Edinburgh News.

These figures represent the number of bottles of Dr. King's New Life-Giver, for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, which were sold in the United States from March, 1910, to March, 1912. Two Million, Two Hundred and Twenty-Three Thousand, Six Hundred and Seventy-Two bottles sold in one year, and each and every bottle was sold on a positive guarantee that money would be refunded if satisfactory results were not obtained.

The secret of its success is plain. It never disappoints and can always be depended on as the very best remedy for Coughs, Colds, and Croup, and $1.00 at Short & Haynes' drug store.

Is He Treacherous?

The Louisville Tinsley Critic that supported Josiah Lindsey as "Army" for the Senate placed the following: "Before Lindsey was made Senator he endorsed Col. Welch for the Surveyorship. After he was made Senator he endorsed Representative Spaulding of Lebanon, who voted for him. Col. Welch called upon Senator Lindsey in Washington and asked him if it was true that he had endorsed Spaulding. Col. Welch, at the same time, proferring his letters of endorsement and releasing him from all pledges. Lindsey said, emphatically, that he was for Welch and that he would resign if he were not re-elected. Pleasant to take, Spaulding, Col. Welch heard this and was justly indignant. He has expressed himself freely as to Lindsey's treachery, and, unless the general Senator has made his peace with him, Welch is in a frame of mind to personally express his indignation and disgust to the Senator whenever they meet."—Elizabethtown News.

Yost an Easy Winner.

The race for judge of the Court of Appeals in the district above this promises to be a hot one between Judge J. H. Yost and Willis L. Reeves. The candidates live in the adjoining counties of Muhlenberg and Todd and both are able lawyers and shrewd politicians. Judge Yost will start in, it is claimed, with the solid vote of the counties beyond Green River, enough to nominate even without the Warren county, which he also has strong hopes of carrying. It looks a very easy matter for Yost to win.

CHOLERA!

FRESH OUTBREAK IN BERLIN.

Alarm for its Invasion of America Well Founded.

The telegraphic dispatches of January 21st report the outbreak of cholera in Berlin, 61 cases and 19 deaths being reported.

Just now, when an epidemic of Asiatic cholera is among the alarming possibilities, all stomach and bowel troubles assume an importance beyond the ordinary, and should meet with prompt treatment. Cholera morbus, cholera infantum, diarrhea, dysentery, colic, cramps, wind on the stomach, flatulence, distress after eating, etc., all point conclusively to a bad condition of the stomach and bowels, and all such disorders should be corrected at once.

Mr. H. L. Wilson, Strumpton, W. Va., says: "Lightning Hot Drops is the best medicine I ever used for pain; for cramps and colic in children, it can't be beat. For flux, it is the king."

Mr. J. B. Campbell, of Tooley, W. Va., has this to say: "Last April I had an extremely severe attack of my bowels in less than two hours. I took three doses of Lightning Hot Drops and it relieved me instantly."
